WHAT DRINKERS AND BOOT-LEGGERS WILL DRAW

Uucle Sam's new prohibition law for these United States goes into effect today and all the machinery of the Federal Government will be levelled against the man or men who are found with whiskey or beer in their possession or who manufacture it.

The penalty is as follows: First offense $200 fine or six months in jail or both. The confiscation of the buggy, wagon, or auto which carries the stuff. Second offense, five years in the penitentiary. The official making the arrest will receive 10 per cent of the fine and the government the balance.

From now on it will not be a local or even state fight, and parents who wish to save their boys from drunkenness and who know of the existence of stills, may advise the Internal Revenue Office at Louisville and get results. The men who persist in defying the law will find themselves up against the power which raised 4,000,000 men to fight Germany.

Attend to the space between your curbing and the side-walk now so that the grass can get a start. If left in the present state of roughness we shall have many ugly spots in our city next summer.
